Grim Reminder to Holiday Motorists

The mangled automobile shown above at Doc Smith's Garage may serve as a grim warning to the thousands of holiday motorists who plan a long week-end beginning tonight. This is the aftermath of the accident which claimed the life of Nicholas McChaj, 27, of 25 Monroe street, Passaic, N. J., when his speeding automobile crashed into a steel girder Wednesday night at the Esopus Creek bridge. The former Pacific war veteran died soon after the crash. (Freeman Photo).

Milton Man Jailed For Train Shooting

Richards Gets 30 Days After Bullet Misses E. J. Reynolds

Charles Richards, 17, of Milton, who was arrested by the state police at that place Wednesday on a charge of "discharging firearms at a passing train," was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail by Peace Justice Fred Woolsey Thursday.

The youth was charged with having discharged a .22 calibre rifle at the caboose of a south-bound West Shore freight train near Milton, Wednesday afternoon. The bullet, police said, barely missed trainman E. J. Reynolds of Dumont, N. J.

Withers Is Given Suspended Term

Milton Man, 72, Agrees to Make Good on Damage Costs

Fred A. Withers, 72, of Milton was given a suspended sentence of 10 days in the county jail when he appeared before Peace Justice Albert Lester of Highland yesterday on the charge that he had discharged a shotgun at two boys early last Sunday morning.

The suspended sentence was imposed, the state police reported, after Withers had agreed to make restitution for injuries and torn clothing.

Withers fired on the boys, according to the police, after they had entered a shed north of the Music Box Tavern on Route 9-W to get out of the rain. They were on a hitchhiking trip to Newburgh at the time.

One of the boys, Arthur Ferro, 16, of 22 Post street, Kingston, the police said, was hit in the back of the neck and one thigh with the shot. The other, Clifford Lovell, 17, of Clintonville, was not hit, but both damaged clothing as they ran from the shed, according to the report.

The arrest was by Trooper John Metzger of the E.C.L. and Troopers A. C. Howland and E. T. Johnson.

Idea Is, G.O.P. Would Be Forced To Deliver on Its Pledges

(By The Associated Press)

Some highly placed Democrats began beating the drums today for a special session of Congress this summer—and a presidential challenge to the Republicans to deliver on their 1948 platform promises.

G.O.P. lawmakers generally were cool to the idea of getting back into harness any time soon.

President Truman himself declined to comment.

Senator McGrath of Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, told reporters pressure is coming from people for Mr. Truman to call Congress back soon after the Democratic convention opening in Philadelphia July 12.

McGrath had just issued a formal blast at what he called the "dismal failure" of the G.O.P.-controlled 80th Congress. He said people will remember Congress' record when they vote in November.

Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.) commented: "It would be rather interesting to see the Republicans challenged to deliver on their platform promises which are completely inconsistent with the record of the 80th Congress."

But Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) of the House Ways and Means Committee had this to say:

"Nothing could be accomplished by a special session, because the President would be sure to vote anything we did. The American people will just have to wait until next Sunday morning."

The odds appeared about even today that the steel industry would accept John L. Lewis' contract terms for operating its own coal mines.

Well posted industry sources said there is an equal chance that steel would buck the deal made by the rest of the soft coal industry.

If that were to happen, the steel industry has indicated it may sue Lewis' United Mine Workers Union in the National Labor Relations Board for de-

Kite Is Sentenced To Year and Day By County Judge

Attorney Presents Petition Signed by 11 Jurors Who Asked Leniency

Fred Kite, Jr., of New Paltz, who was convicted earlier this week on an assault, second degree, charge arising out of an alleged attack on a New Paltz State Teachers College student last August, was sentenced to a year in the Ulster county jail this morning by County Judge John M. Cashin. The jury acquitted Kite of a charge of rape, first degree, and found him guilty of the assault charge which was the second count of the indictment.

The complainant alleged that she had been attacked while out on a date with Kite.

Chris J. Flanagan, who appeared as defense counsel, asked that leniency be shown and he presented to the court a petition signed by eleven of the twelve jurors who convicted Kite which requested the court to be lenient in passing sentence. Mr. Flanagan said the jurors had been contacted since the verdict and had signed the petition asking for leniency. He said he did not feel Kite was guilty of a crime, certainly not rape, and he classified the incident as having been "indiscreet."

Mr. Flanagan said he understood the jury had first stood 8 to 4 for acquittal and later the vote was 11 to 1 for acquittal but because the jurors believed they had to agree to a verdict, the guilty to assault, second degree, verdict had resulted.

After pronouncing sentence Judge Cashin recessed the court until July 15 at 10 o'clock.

Tsingtao, China, July 2 (AP)—Four U.S. Marine fliers held captive by Chinese Communists since May 5 were released today, the navy announced.

Record Holiday Travel Begins Through Area

That travel through Kingston this week-end will surpass that on July 4 last year and may reach record proportions is the opinion of police and transportation company officials, according to a survey made this morning.

The exodus from New York city began as early as Thursday afternoon. Between 5 and 5:30 p. m. more than a dozen buses arrived at the Adirondack Transit Lines terminal on Broadway at Pine Grove avenue, and at one time during that period the arrivals were so numerous that several buses were forced to stop in front of the Y.M.C.A. building on Broadway to await their turn at entering the depot.

At the same time, other buses were arriving at the Central Bus Terminal, used by the Greyhound Lines and others.

The heavy bus traffic added to the usual number of homeward-bound local persons resulted in almost solid lines of traffic proceeding slowly on Broadway.

Reasons for the early departure of vacationers from New York are that the elementary schools of that city closed on Wednesday and that many persons began their summer vacations on July 1, according to Lawrence Van Gonsle, general manager of Adirondack Transit Lines, Inc.

Van Gonsle said his company and other transportation companies expect much heavier traffic today, and that the travel will be an increase over that of last year.

Unlike the Memorial Day holiday, however, traffic this week-end will be primarily one-way, from New York northward, he said. On the Memorial Day week-end, traffic was almost equally heavy in both directions through Kingston.

Chief of Police Raymond Van Buren also predicted an increase over last year's traffic, and today called to duty available special patrolmen.

Special traffic assignments were made this morning by Van Buren, which included the placing of a patrolman at the Rondout Creek bridge entrance, at Broadway and East Chester street, and at Hasbrouck avenue and East Chester street, for traffic direction. A traffic patrolman is regularly assigned to Pine Grove avenue and Broadway during the rush hours daily.

The West Shore Division of the New York Central Railroad has scheduled several relief trains as well as adding extra coaches on all regular runs over the week-end. One relief train will leave Weehawken at 4:15 p. m. today to carry passengers to Newburgh, Kingston, Saugerties, Coxsackie and other mountain points. The train regularly scheduled for that time will leave immediately after the relief train and will continue its regular run to Albany.

Train No. 1, scheduled to arrive in Kingston at 11 a. m. Daylight Time, tomorrow, will also be run in two sections, one for the Catskill Mountain Branch and the other on its regular run on the West Shore. On Sunday and Monday, extra sections and extra coaches will be added on south-bound runs.

J. A. Simpson, West Shore agent at Kingston, said today that among the passengers to arrive Thursday were large numbers of New York city children bound for camps in the Catskill mountains.

They were fed an average Chinese soldier's diet, he said.

Charter Group Won't Include Any Manager Clause

Revision Group Decides Arguments Too Late; Draft Is to Be Reviewed

Arguments favoring a city manager type of government, which were presented to the Charter Revision Commission at a meeting Monday night, were dismissed by that group last night with the explanation that these arguments should have been presented several months ago and that as the proposed new charter has been nearly completed it is too late to make any radical changes. The commission members have decided upon retaining the federal type of city government.

This information was made public today in an authorized statement prepared by Thomas W. Miller, commission secretary. The statement read in part: "The commission, ever since its last public hearing in April has kept in mind the retention of the Federal type city government. The public hearing afforded citizens opportunity to express and give suggestions. The commission is grateful to all those who have in any way assisted them in their work, but feel that since their work is so nearly completed those citizens favoring city manager type of government should have consulted with them sooner."

It is not the commission's desire to disregard the plan but it would rather those citizens present their proposals directly to the public for consideration. To effect charter changes which would meet the requirements of a city manager type of government, it desired by the electors, would mean months of work such as the Charter Revision Commission has been doing in creating a more simplified and efficient charter for our present federal type city government."

The commission also announced through its secretary that they have included a provision in the proposed charter which would become effective on January 1, 1950, if approved by the voters of Kingston at the general election this fall.

The proposed charter, being virtually completed, will be completely reviewed by the commission members, beginning at their next regular meeting.

A last night's meeting a section was adopted dealing with the Water Board. Under this section, that board would consist of five members, beginning at their next regular meeting.

The powers and duties of the Water Board remain essentially the same under the proposal as at present, with the exception that the approval of the Board of Estimate and the Common Council would be necessary in fixing and changing the amounts of water rates, rents and penalties.

The article also provides that all monies coming into the Water Department be collected by the city comptroller and shall be credited to the water fund account, and shall be applied to the payment of the expenses of the ordinary maintenance and management of the Water Department, or thereof, and if more than sufficient for that purpose the balance thereof shall be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of any outstanding bonds, certificates of indebtedness, or other indebtedness incurred for or on behalf of the Water Department, and for no other purpose. When a sufficient amount has been accumulated to pay all outstanding indebtedness (of the Water Department) the over-plus may be used for any lawful municipal purpose."

Kouhout Injured in Fall

Frank Kouhout, 40, of 21 Abeel street, received injury to his ankle when he fell to the sidewalk at the corner of Mill street and Broadway at 10:45 p. m. Thursday, the police reported. He was taken to Kingston Hospital by Patrolmen Walter Van Steenburgh and Charles Hoehing, where he was treated for a dislocation and sprain of his ankle and admitted. His condition this morning was "apparently fair," hospital authorities reported.

Two Men Given Suspended Time In Cashin's Court

Signor and Mareley Are Put on Probation; Adjournment for Gold, Stellar

Kenneth Signor of Cottekill charged with criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle was given a suspended sentence of a year and a half to two years in Clinton Prison, Dannemora by County Judge John M. Cashin yesterday afternoon.

A former plea of not guilty was changed to one of guilty and Signor's attorney Charles Gaffney stressed that the defendant had served four and a half years in the army. He was with the 82nd Airborne Division and was on Normandy Beach and the Battle of the Bulge, he said.

Signor was charged with having struck and fatally injured Charles V. Garrity, 72, of Shandaken while driving through that place on October 10, 1947.

Attorney Gaffney emphasized that readjustment was difficult for the defendant after leaving the service because of conditions at home and asked for a suspended sentence.

No Witnesses

District Attorney Louis A. Bruhn informed the court that there were no witnesses to the accident, and Judge Cashin, in imposing the suspended sentence, placed the defendant on probation and warned him that he would serve the sentence if it were violated.

Judge Cashin imposed a suspended sentence of a year in the county jail on John Mareley of St. Albans, N. J., who was charged with the theft of lumber from the unoccupied mountain house on Overlook at Woodstock, July 15, 1946.

Bernadotte May Go to Cairo; Arabs Refuse Rhodes Trip

Cairo, July 2 (AP)—Count Folke Bernadotte is expected in Cairo tomorrow to try to salvage his Palestine peace plans in the face of threatened Arab rejection.

An Arab League informant said this last night after Arab leaders refused to send representatives to Bernadotte's Rhodes headquarters.

Bernadotte arrived in Jerusalem last night to straighten out true problems, including food allotments for the city's 100,000 Jews.

A high Arab League source said yesterday the league will turn down Bernadotte's proposals for a permanent Palestine peace and has appointed a committee to draft a reply to the mediator's plan, submitted early this week.

The nationalist newspaper Al Misri said here Bernadotte had proposed that Arab Palestine be joined to Trans-Jordan and that the Arabs accept Israel as a Jewish state.

Message Is Sent as Aid To Marshal

Faith in Tito Is Firm, Party Members Say in Correspondence to Stalin

Break May Follow Yugoslavia, Other States May Split Over Red Denunciation

London, July 2 (AP)—Yugoslav Communists appealed directly to Prime Minister Stalin today to repudiate the Cominform charges against Premier Marshal Tito and his leadership.

The Yugoslavs repeated their assertion the Cominform charges were a pack of lies and said Stalin ought to wipe them off the record.

The Yugoslav appeal amounted to a request to Stalin to reverse the policies of one of his right hand men, Andrei A. Zhdanov, secretary of the central committee of the Soviet Communist party and the guiding spirit of the Cominform.

Approximately 15,000 Communists meeting in Belgrade sent a message directly to Stalin which affirmed their faith in Premier Marshal Tito.

The message to Stalin was tendered in his power to bring out the truth in reply to the charges by the Cominform, the nine-nation Communist International Information Bureau. It has charged Tito and his leaders with being anti-Russian and traitors to Marxism.

The message to Stalin was tendered in his power to bring out the truth in reply to the charges by the Cominform, the nine-nation Communist International Information Bureau. It has charged Tito and his leaders with being anti-Russian and traitors to Marxism.

"Our love towards you and the whole Soviet Union and everything you did for humanity is unlimited, as well as our belief that you will do everything in your power so that the truth will be brought out in a very short time."

It said: "Long live your teacher of love towards the Soviet Union, Comrade Tito, and long live our best friend, Stalin."

The powerful central committee of the Communist party in Russia has already approved the Cominform blast against Tito. It is hardly possible that the Cominform took its original action without approval of Stalin.

The Communists meeting in Belgrade sent a second telegram to the Central Communist Committee of Yugoslavia, which has denounced the Cominform charges as lies and slander. The telegram expressed faith in the committee and Tito.

An additional sign of a break between Yugoslavia and the rest of the Communist states was reported from Bucharest, the Romanian capital. The Cominform bulletin was published there last night. It has been coming out in Belgrade.

In Washington American officials trying to figure out what may be most immediate result of the Yugoslav developments thought the coordinated backing of Communist guerrillas in Greece by Yugoslavia, Albania and Greece may now end.

Belgrade dispatches showed Yugoslav Communists were standing fast behind Tito and even striking back with criticisms of neighboring Albania and Bulgaria.

Signal Is Installed By State at Bypass

The New York State Traffic Commission has installed a "stop and go" traffic signal at the junction of Albany avenue and the East Chester street bypass. When the red signal shows all traffic must come to a complete halt except southbound vehicles which are to continue over Albany avenue on the green arrow.

Several accidents have taken place at this junction controlled only by a full stop sign for north-bound cars over Albany avenue. Due to the bypass traffic and autos traveling northward over Albany plan, except the Negro southern lines the junction was considered a hazardous intersection.

Police Tell Their Side of Story on Mrs. Choremí

New York, July 2 (AP)—Accused of loitering "for purposes of prostitution," the daughter of a career diplomat heard a policeman tell in court yesterday of her alleged telephone conversations.

Mrs. Nancy Fletcher Choremí, beautiful, 27-year-old brunette, is one of three women named in vagrancy charges.

Magistrate Arthur Markewich reserved decision on motions to dismiss the charges against her and two others, Madeleine Blavier, 32, and Margaret Starr, 30.

Testifying for the prosecution, plainclothesman Frederick Elster said that, on a tapped telephone, he heard the Blavier woman tell Mrs. Choremí about a prospective date and say, "You can get paid and enjoy yourself at the same time."

Mrs. Choremí agreed to "be up at 2:30," the officer said.

On May 3, the officer said, he overheard another of her alleged conversations with the Blavier woman in which he said Mrs. Choremí asked:

"Did you make that date for me?"

The officer said Mrs. Blavier replied:

"Yes, you will be at my apartment at 6:30. They are very nice men and it's for twice what you expect."

"I'll be there," Mrs. Choremí was quoted as saying.

Mrs. Choremí, daughter of C. Paul Fletcher, U. S. consul general at Constantinople, did not take the stand in her defense.

Earlier, in asking testimony on a writ of habeas corpus, she claimed false arrest. She said her "honor, reputation and career are at stake." She said the charge was "utterly impossible and ridiculous" and that she "at no time committed any crime."

She is the wife of George Choremí, wealthy cotton broker now in Egypt.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

Study This Example To Strip Out Hand

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

The most common mistake made by bridge writers is the presenting of complicated hands. Since Alphonse ("Sonny") Moyse, Jr., has taken over the publishing of the monthly magazine, "The Bridge World," it contains interesting articles for the benefit of the average player.

In the May issue there was an article by William Allen Smith, Jr., of Huntington, N. Y., who selected a number of hands and pointed out how easy it was to misplay them. Today's hand is taken from that article.

West won the first trick with

♠ 8 5 3	♥ 10 8
♦ 7 5 3	♣ 10 8 6 4
♠ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♥ 10 8 6 4
♦ 10 8 6 4	♣ 10 8 6 4
♠ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♥ 10 8 6 4
♦ 10 8 6 4	♣ 10 8 6 4
♠ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♥ 10 8 6 4
♦ 10 8 6 4	♣ 10 8 6 4

the king of hearts and then shifted to the Jack of diamonds, which trumped. He picked up the trump, and saying to himself that the king and queen of clubs could not both be in the West hand, he played a club from dummy, fished the ten-spot and lost to the queen. Another diamond came back, dummy's king won, and another club finesse was taken and lost. Thus declarer lost two hearts and two clubs.

It is quite easy to make this hand. Win the Jack of diamonds with the ace, take three rounds of trumps, cash dummy's king of diamonds and ruff a diamond. Then lead the Jack of hearts. West will win and exit with a heart, and now you have cleared both the dummy and your own hand of hearts and diamonds. Lead a club from dummy and finesse the ten-spot. West will win and must lead the Jack of clubs, or give you a sluff and a ruff.

Although this is a simple hand, you will find it worthwhile to study it carefully, as it is an ideal example of stripping out a hand.

Army Asks Leaves For Reserve Members

Washington, July 2 (AP)—The Army appealed today to employers to help in the national defense program by giving leaves of absence to men for training or periods of active duty with reserve organizations.

Brig. Gen. Wendell Westover, chief of the army's Reserve Affairs Bureau, urged this cooperation in talking to reporters. The army, he said, is starting to build up organized reserve units into fully trained and equipped outfits, capable of giving quick support to the regular army in event of emergency.

Westover said employers could help by assuring employees that their jobs will be waiting when they returned from duty or training with reserve units.

Many employees, the general said, "are hesitant, and rightfully so, to leave a job because of the uncertainty" about getting back.

For training purposes, reservists are needed for periods varying from two weeks to 30 days. For extended active duty with the army the time runs from one to three years.

There are now about 460,000 men in the enlisted reserve corps. Of the total, about 53,000 are in units having regular training schedules and equipment.

Pitching Horseshoes By Billy Rose

During the second week of June, THE SATURDAY EVENING POST and LIFE MAGAZINE both published pieces about Avery Brundage, chairman of the U. S. Olympic Committee.

"Well, well, well," I said to myself. "It looks as if Amiable Avery has hired himself a press agent. Why not be a good fellow, Rose, and give him a break in your column? It's the least he can expect from the husband of Eleanor Holm."

To get the other side of the story, I went to the library and did some boning up on the man who had chucked Eleanor off the '36 Olympic team. I'd like to pass along my findings without comment. But before you read them, please fasten your safety belts. We're coming into a strong head wind. . . .

In 1935, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, protested to Brundage against American participation in the Olympic Games to be held in Mr. Hitler's Germany. He produced evidence of Nazi discrimination against Catholic athletes. Later that year, Dr. Charles S. MacFarland, secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, made a similar protest and documented it with quotations from the official German publication covering physical training, by Dr. Bruno Malliz. Brundage replied that his committee would send a team to Germany—with or without the cooperation of the A.A.U.—and that the protests were part of a Jewish plot.

Quoting from LIFE, "This fixation had led him into some situations which were merely ridiculous, and some which were genuine disasters. In 1936, it led him to become an active partisan of Nazi Germany and the conversion of the Olympic Games into a political and propaganda triumph for Adolph Hitler."

When Brundage returned to America after the Olympics, he was one of the principal speakers at a meeting sponsored by the German-American Bund at Madison Square Garden. He shared the platform with Fritz Kuhn who led his Bund buddies in singing, "Deutschland Uber Alles." Brundage, and I quote, "received more applause than Fritz Kuhn, Ambassador Hans Luther, or Karl Stroehlin of the German Foreign Institute," when, "after the singing of the Horst Wessel Song, he stated that 'We can learn much from Germany. . . .'"

Brundage, and I'm still quoting, "has always been suspicious of athletic women. When Babe Didrikson was suspended by his committee, Avery defended the decision as follows: 'You know, the ancient Greeks kept women out of their athletic games. They wouldn't even let them on the sidelines. I'm not so sure but what they were right.'"

"His suspicion is that some of them—perhaps even a considerable number—are really men. . . . Just before the 1936 games in Berlin, he demanded in vain a thorough physical examination for every woman on every Olympic team."

Before Avery made his millions in the building business, he was quite an athlete himself. According to LIFE, "Heel-and-toe walking, which is almost a lost art today, was one of Brundage's favorite sports. 'That was a beautiful event,' he mused recently, 'and I excelled in it. It is the closest a man can get to the pangs of childbirth.'"

As THE SATURDAY EVENING POST tells it, Brundage had nothing to do with bouncing my misadventure off the '36 Olympic team. The decision was made by "the twenty or thirty members of the Olympic Committee who made the voyage. . . . It was up to Brundage, as the ranking committeeman present, to announce her disbarment."

"Is that true?" I asked Eleanor the other night.

"Definitely not," said the girl who placed first in the '32 Olympics and was never defeated after that. "The Committee was composed of athletic coaches and other sports-struck people who were getting a free trip to Europe only because Brundage had okayed them. They voted his way or else."

"Give me the straightway on the champagne story, I said.

"It's simple," said my favorite mermaid. "An Olympic team is made up of athletes who are the products of coaches from all parts of the country. Virtually every coach has his own training methods. The man who trained me was always afraid I might get stale. He worked me like a washerwoman six days a week, and on the seventh let me relax. If I felt like a smoke or a few drinks, it was okay with him. His method must have been pretty good because I won several hundred A.A.U. medals. Incidentally, these so-called gold medals have tarnished and turned green."

"When I went to Europe with the team in '36, I traveled third class. Mr. Brundage refused to let me travel any other way. When the newspaper boys invited me to their party, I was glad to come up out of steerage. I wasn't training that day, and I saw no harm in having a few glasses of champagne with them. I have no apologies for what I did, and if I were going over with the team this year, I wouldn't act any different."

These ladies and gentlemen, are the highlights of my research. As promised, I'm passing them on without comment. Speaking for myself, I shall always be indebted to Avery Brundage. If he hadn't fired Eleanor, she might not have turned pro, starred in the Aquacade, and gotten hitched to the guy who owned the show. And I wouldn't be looking forward to going up to Mt. Kisco this week-end.

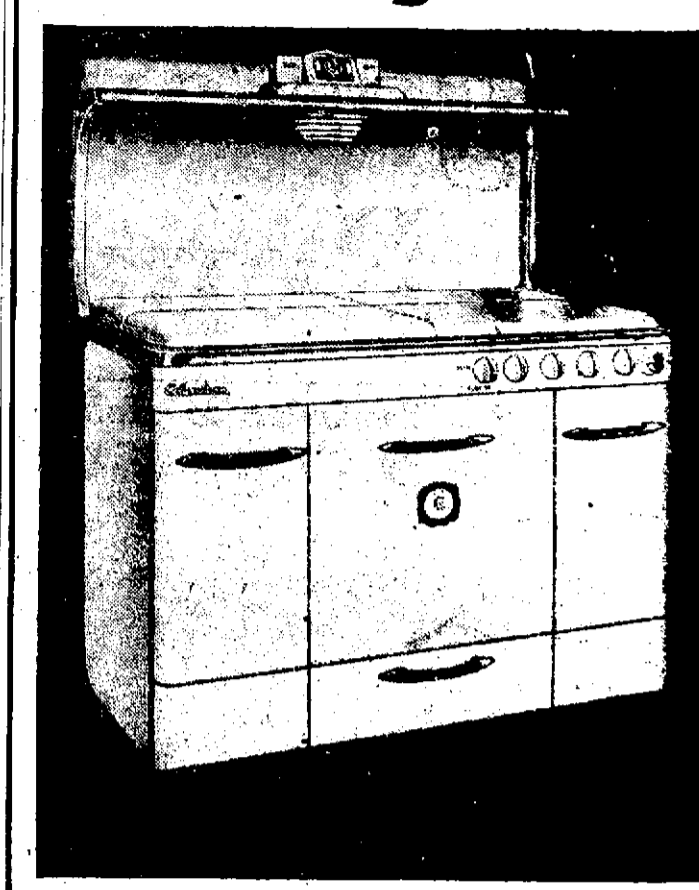

So let other people call him "Slavery Avery" and "a sanctimonious anob with a long record of asinine antics," (see POST article P. 28) and "just about the meanest man in the whole world of sports," (see LIFE article P. 115). Me, I'll never say a word against the man.

Why should I? I can always quote.

Tulsa Has 'Fever' Of Attacks; One Woman Is Slain

Mrs. Ruth Norton Found in Apartment; Three Others Beaten in City

Tulsa, Okla., July 2 (AP)—A 42-year-old woman was found brutally beaten to death in her apartment today only a few hours after another woman and two teen-agers living in the same neighborhood were discovered savagely bludgeoned in a similar attack.

Police identified the dead woman as Mrs. Ruth Norton, 42, an elevator operator in the National Bank of Tulsa Building.

Her body was found lying on the bed of her bedroom, nude from the waist down. The head had been beaten with a heavy, sharp instrument that inflicted deep gashes.

Police Commissioner J. Fred Lawrence, Jr., and Police Chief J. W. (Bud) Hollingsworth termed the murder one of the most brutal the city has ever had.

Earlier, Mrs. J. B. Cole, 38, her daughter Doris, 13, and a neighbor girl, Leven Gabbard, 11, who was spending the night with the Coles, were found savagely beaten in their apartment. Police said the assailant left the names of two teen-age boys in indelible ink on the legs of the girls.

Doris was near death with a skull fracture. Her mother and Leven were hospitalized with severe head injuries.

Police arrested for investigation four persons, two of them the boys whose names were inscribed on the victims' legs.

The latter attacks occurred within a half mile of a half of a block apartment house in which a mother and daughter were found beaten to death in 1943 and only a block from another apartment where a woman was killed in 1945.

These killings never have been solved.

Neighbors who summoned police after hearing screams and a commotion in the apartment told police they saw the assailant leaving the building. None, however, could give a good description.

Bretagna, Rosenberg Will Die in Chair

New York, July 2 (AP)—Santo Bretagna, 27, and William Rosenberg, 42, must die in Sing Sing electric chair for the slaying of Benjamin (Chippy) Weiner, erstwhile intimate of the Murder, Inc., mob.

The two were convicted of first degree murder yesterday. A death sentence was mandatory. Judge Saul S. Street set July 2 for sentencing.

Weiner, 43, was killed by four bullets fired at him in his apartment last January 13 while he was caring for his sleeping infant son.

Rosenberg, in an alleged confession introduced during the trial, said he persuaded Bretagna to kill Weiner "for nothing, just for a friend." The confession said the murder was planned after Weiner had "run out" on a $300 debt owed Rosenberg.

Both men repudiated their confessions at the trial.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, July 2 (AP)—The position of the treasury June 30: Receipts $371,928,830.36; Expenditures $371,928,830.36; Balance $1,932,021,477.07. (X) Reflects a $3,000,000,000 increase in expenditures and a $3,000,000,000 reduction in excess of receipts over expenditures as a result of Congressional action transferring $3,000,000,000 to Foreign Economic Cooperation Trust Fund and requiring $3,000,000,000 to be expended during the fiscal year 1948.

done in and out day and night. They are moving in food and other supplies at the rate of 1,100 tons every 24 hours.

The officials said there is a 24 day supply of coal on hand and enough gasoline for three months, as well as a supply of diesel oil for four to five months.

The first of 32 four-engine C-54s expected from the United States arrived yesterday and was immediately put on the Berlin run. More are due today.

No Signs of Leaving

The Russians showed no signs of hasty evacuation from the Berlin Kommandatura today. They announced yesterday they were quitting that four-power body.

The Soviet staff is still on hand this morning and there was no effort to remove Soviet files and documents. American officials said.

The American Deputy Commander of Berlin said yesterday the U. S. would not consider the Russian action in quitting the Kommandatura official until Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, was so informed by Marshall D. Sokolovsky, Soviet military governor.

Russian tanks that they might open the highway from the west to Berlin did not materialize. The British border control point at Helmstedt said no east bound traffic is moving. Rail traffic also was shut down.

American transport experts are working on plans to fly coal into Berlin. Berliners estimated the city needs 3,000 to 4,000 tons of coal a day from the Ruhr.

An aviation official said possibly coal might be dumped from planes in flight into restricted areas, or landed and unloaded at airports.

Water, Water! Hold Everything!

Look at 'er shinny! The crocheted water finder that is, a South American crocheted water finder in the hands of Stephen L. Parn of Guyton street who claims he has just located a vein of water on the property of Alice Virginia Watts of Flatbush. The former painting contractor is one of the few "gifted" water finders in this section of the country, who boasts that he can estimate the depth of the vein and amount of flow. (Freeman Photo)

Kingstonian Lays Claim to Gift He Can Locate Flows

Ever hear that cry so common among woodsmen as a giant of the forest is about to crash—Timber!

Well, in this case it's—Water!

Yes, this Kingston man lays claim to being one of those old-fashioned fellows who can work a crocheted water finder and locate underground streams.

It's Stephen L. Parn of Guyton street in the Lincoln Park section of Kingston, a retired painting contractor.

It's a gift of nature, according to Parn, and not a lot of humbug as some folks think.

And he has a long list of clients, who'll prove he can find underground veins of water, he says.

Ask any of these folks, he advised, as he mentioned the names of property owners in this section: Former Sheriff Howard Anderson of Accord; Copeland Gates, Lake Katrine farmer; John Koskie, New Salem dairyman; Ed Veiger of Port Ewen; Dick Ingalls of Torgone, and a host of others.

Can Tell How Deep

Besides locating the veins, Parn says the vibration of his branch indicates to him the depth of the stream in the earth and its approximate flow.

He cited figures to substantiate his accuracy, and informed a reporter that he could call any of "my clients to prove I'm not joshing."

When S. L. Parn tells a man to dig 90 feet, 150 or 75 feet to find water, it's there, or within a few feet of the estimate, he assured.

With a reporter and cameraman observing, Parn went through his routine at the Flatbush property and told Alice Virginia Watts she had to dig 93 feet for a well.

How did Allen come to engage the Water Prophet Parn? Well, one of his satisfied customers told her about him.

Has 'Water Eye' Too

Aside from being able to work the crocheted water finder, Parn says nature has endowed him with sort of a "water eye." He claims that a vein to him as a black mark on a piece of white paper.

Again he stressed that a visit to his satisfied customers with gushing wells would substantiate his story.

It all seems so simple, this business of using the branch, but it just wouldn't work when several skeptics picked up his crocheted water finder and another of peach and walked along the same area as Parn.

Again he stressed it's a gift of nature.

Here's how he does it: Selecting one of the branches, he prefers the hazelwood, he takes a walk in the area where his "water eye" observed a vein.

The walk is sort of a combination between a goosestep and jitterbug movement. And, he holds fast to the ends of the Y in the crocheted with all his might.

Then, all of a sudden, swish, the branch does a dyspnoicoid. It makes an arc toward his body and points to the earth.

Water, water! There it is! Or, at least Parn advises the well diggers will find it when they drill.

Almost Throws Him

Sometimes the branch vibrates

One dependent parent, $54 and $60; two dependent parents, $30 and $35 (each).

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 2 (AP)—Railway issues once more took over leadership of the stock market today. Gains for the carriers ran to around 2 points or more. Other issues—except for a couple of ails—picked their way through a narrowly irregular price range.

Steel stocks improved. This reflected in part the announcement late yesterday that President Truman had decided to rely on voluntary rationing rather than allocation by government order.

Superior Oil of California jumped 10 points to 230 at one time. The company reported a huge jump in earnings for the nine months ended May 31.

Other issues higher included N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Baltimore & Ohio, Seaboard Airline, Western Maryland (at a new high), Central of N. J., Richfield Oil, U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, National Steel, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, International Nickel, and Paramount Pictures.

Trimmed a bit were Studebaker, Firestone Tire, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, and U. S. Gypsum.

VACATION ABROAD

While Americans are busy planning their vacation schedules, two government departments are competing for the privilege of guiding their footsteps.

The Department of the Interior would have the summer travelers take in the sights of their own country, while the Commerce Department fosters plans for European tours. The former agency has the backing of the hotel and resort interests, as well as all other groups who profit by keeping the population on the move. The latter is spurred by a provision of the E.C.A. which concerns the spending of large sums of money in countries cooperating with the recovery plan, and is cheered by travel agencies.

Dispatches from Europe claim that, everywhere except in Germany, the Europeans are awaiting the American traveler with open arms. Accommodations in some cases are on a par with those existing before the war, and in others are called merely "adequate".

Most tourists will be governed by the state of their pocketbooks, for one thing. The very cheapest European vacation is bound to be more expensive than one on a similar scale in this country. Many are guided by habit in the choice of a vacation spot. They do their best relaxing in the same place every year. Not many are likely to ask a government for advice.

An ancient Latin inscription has been found a few miles from Baku, the great Russian oil port on the Caspian Sea. It mentions one of the legions of the Roman army, and may be evidence of a Roman military penetration into Transcaucasia, not known to history. It would mark a point further east than any to which the Romans are hitherto known to have spread.

MAINE PICKS A WOMAN

Maine Republicans have nominated for the Senate a woman, Representative Margaret C. Smith, who has served 10 years in the House. Being on the Republican ticket in Maine, she can safely count on election. This will make her the first woman senator elected from the North, and the second in the nation. The first was Mrs. Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, who served several terms. She had the initial advantage of having a husband precede her in the Senate, and so profiting by the curious tradition, followed in parts of the United States, of automatically electing a woman to the office filled by her deceased husband. Mrs. Caraway, however, was re-elected on her own merits.

Maine used to boast of its first-rank public men. Those were the days from 1870 to 1910 when James G. Blaine was the nation's foremost Republican, Thomas B. Reed was the Speaker of the House by whom all subsequent speakers have been measured, Nelson Dingley drew up a famous tariff law, and Eugene Hale and William P. Frye helped rule the Senate. There has been no outstanding Maine senator since Hale was defeated in 1911. Perhaps a woman will restore Maine's representation to fame.

At a recent meeting in New York of the National Federation of Sales Executives, the members recorded the fact that the time has now arrived for a resurgence of good salesmanship. One member of the group claimed that "last year, salesmanship was at the lowest ebb of many, many years".

BICYCLING

Bicycles are becoming numerous. Anyone who goes about the country has noticed this fact. Riders usually are children or teen age boys and girls. Bicycling offers a healthful, inexpensive day to travel, and is particularly helpful in getting city boys and girls into rural districts for a day's fun in uncongested farm areas.

Unfortunately most American highways and city streets lack safe facilities for bicycle riders. The lack of bicycle or pedestrian lanes in this country contrasts with those provided in most sections of England, for example. There, bicycles are even more nu-

THE VIRTUE OF THE LIE

Never before has just plain lying been condoned and even extolled. It has happened that the lie has been explained away or rationalized, but it has not been called "sense and candor." Something must be very wrong with our educational system if a young professor of history, the star of Harvard, can delight in the lie and the liar. Yet that is precisely what Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., does in the New York Times Book Review, front page, in a discussion of "The Man in the Street," by Professor Thomas A. Bailey, of Stanford University. Professor Bailey, referring to Franklin D. Roosevelt, says:

"Roosevelt repeatedly deceived the American people during the period before Pearl Harbor. He was faced with a terrible dilemma. If he let the people slumber in a fog of isolation, they might well fall prey to Hitler. If they came out unequivocally for intervention, he would be defeated in 1940."

On this, young Schlesinger comments: "On the Roosevelt problem he writes with sense and candor."

And further, he says: "If he was going to induce the people to move at all, Professor Bailey concludes, he had no choice but to trick them into acting for what he conceived to be their best interests."

It is a curiosity of human relations that practically all the men about Roosevelt have questioned his veracity. One assumed that Harry Hopkins was loyal to the last drop, but the Robert Sherwood digest of Hopkins's notes leaves a feeling in the reader that all was not above board with the master. Harold Ickes's comment dittoes. Here is Professor Bailey, who teaches the youth of the country, but who can say that the President of the United States was in a dilemma because he could not decide whether to tell the people the truth or lie and be decided to lie—but in a good cause. The good cause, naturally, was that he should not be defeated in 1940 when he ran for a Third Term. In a word, a lie becomes a virtue when it keeps the old gang in power. That is what Hitler preached.

Now, I never having been a New Dealer, will not go with them as far as to say that their Boss was untruthful, generally speaking. That accusation ought to be limited to members of his official family who are more familiar with his characteristics. I simply make the point that Professor Bailey and Professor Schlesinger condone the lie and say it is "sense and candor" and a smart business if it fools the people into electing a candidate for public office.

These professors are apparently practical men. They want the best people in government. Schlesinger says of Bailey:

"His conclusions are sensible if not new; we must get our best people into government; we must raise the educational level of our entire population; we should keep our heads in times of crises and remember that in only times of strength."

These are wonderful sentiments, but what about liars? John O'Donnell of the New York Daily News and the Washington Times-Herald, who told the truth as the record now discloses, was given an Iron Cross by President Roosevelt and was held before the nation as a liar and a renegade. But O'Donnell told the truth and it was Roosevelt who was deceiving the people. The professors appear to be without a word to say about this.

The logic of their position is difficult to pursue. I suppose Al Capone could, if he hired a foxy enough lawyer and got some professors to act as his apologists, find that he broke the law in a good cause—maybe to maintain order in Chicago. In a society that knows only comparative morality, anything goes if you can get away with it. In fact, might even land in the White House and stay there if the lie is big enough and is repeated often enough. If that is what our professors are teaching, maybe it would be better if our children did not learn the bitter facts of life from them.

That Body of Yours

INDUSTRY AND HEALTH

It is hard for those of the white collar class—standing on the sidelines—to understand why labor and industry do not work together better because, no matter which side wins a battle, everybody loses and the white collar man gets the worst of it. What have industrial disputes to do with health? It has been found that wherever employees have instituted a welfare service, in which the health of the employee and his family is a matter of concern to the employer, it has meant not only less absenteeism but more faithful work on the part of the employee.

It is significant that organizations where more than lip service to the human aspect of industry has been paid have weathered the succession of slumps and depressions of the between-the-war period.

In Great Britain the Industrial Health Research Board and the National Institute of Industrial Psychology have investigated the conditions of industry and growth to their work, their conditions of work and their working surroundings, and also have studied what the job requires of the worker. These investigators studied such matters as the effect of light, temperature and hours of work; vocational guidance and selection; training methods; measures of well being such as absence due to illness and labor wastage; accident prevention; and human relationships in industry.

Another branch of industry that already is bringing employer and employee together is the employment of men and women who are not strong physically and mentally, and giving them employment within their physical and mental ability. "An important part of the rehabilitation or re-establishment of any serious illness is that the man should be properly and adequately employed, even if it means change of occupation that should not be left to chance."

It would appear that a small committee consisting of a practical industrial worker, a representative of the employer, a psychologist and a physician would be the proper body to handle these important matters in any industrial plant.

merous, and traffic lanes and rules are set up for them.

Roads often should be built with a thought to bicycle and pedestrian use. The growing toll of injuries and death from bicycle accidents attests the need for provision for these travelers. Also it is not amiss to warn bicycle riders that they themselves must observe traffic rules and ordinary precautions.

The western nations are to be permitted no opportunity to forget, for the briefest moment, the explosive nature of the four-power occupation of Berlin. It is obvious that the Russian plan calls for a constant stirring of the troubled situation; as soon as the effects of one disturbance begin to die away a new crisis is produced.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington—Despite optimistic statements by Democratic Chairman Howard McGrath, the Democratic National Committee has begun to fall apart at the seams. McGrath is trying desperately to hold it together behind President Truman—but it isn't holding.

One national committeeman, Eugene Mahoney of Sioux Falls, S. D., has written McGrath a letter urging him to conduct an honest poll of the grass roots before trying to nominate Truman. "As I understand it, it is not the duty of the National Committee to at all costs endeavor to bring about the nomination of a certain 'Truman,'" wrote Mahoney. "It is the duty and responsibility of the National Committee to lead the Democratic Party to victory and to take the leadership in bringing about the nomination of a candidate who can win."

One clue as to what's happening inside Yugoslavia is a speech Marshal Tito made at a secret meeting of the Oblasni Egzekutivni Odbor (Red Executive Board) at Zagreb, a short time ago. Speaking to his fellow Communist leaders, Tito was extremely frank in admitting trouble inside Yugoslavia. Here is a translation of one part of his speech: "Comrades, you know very well that the peasant is not with us. This was made quite evident with the state's purchase of grain supplies. The plan was a failure, as less than 50 per cent of the fixed quantity was delivered by the peasants. The peasant is cunning and refractory and his belief in gods and priests cannot easily be driven out of his mind. Because of that we have had many difficulties and trouble. I will not indulge now in matters of religion, but if some day the priests rouse the people by ringing the church bells, it is certain that we shall have to face a complete uprising. On account of all that, I have issued all necessary orders and instructions. We need time for a complete success. Therefore, get to work and work hard, as there is not much time left. I wish you, comrades, much luck and full success!"

Note—It may have been that Moscow, because of internal troubles in Yugoslavia, decided to junk Tito.

Special Congress
Some White House advisers are strongly urging the President to call Congress back for a special session immediately after the Democratic Convention.

They tell Truman that he should insist on the enactment of major legislation, such as the Taft-Hartley-Wagner public housing bill, which, though blocked in Congress, was endorsed in the G.O.P. Convention platform.

Friends tell Truman that if G.O.P. leaders continue to block legislation during the special session, he could then charge them with failure to carry out platform pledges.

Other advisers, however, have told Truman that it would be wiser politically not to call a special session, but to let these Republicans stew in juice of their Congressional mistakes.

Under the Dome
A. F. of L. William Greene was even hotter against the Republicans in his private talk to President Truman than when he issued his latest blast. "The Republicans," Green told Truman, "ignored us at Philadelphia. There was nothing favorable to labor in the platform. We didn't have a look-in."

J. D. Parker, the North Carolina winemaker, indicted for income-tax evasion, has entered a Virginia mental institution—some people think to get out of a very tight fix. But, while supposed to be sick, Parker has been seen on the streets of Raleigh—so the Justice Department will prosecute anyway.

Negotiations between London and Washington for Britain's participation in the Marshall Plan are stymied. The British accuse us of trying to regulate the pound sterling in return for Marshall Plan aid. For two weeks diplomats haven't been able to break the deadlock.

Spatz Speaks
One reason Air Chief of Staff "Tooney" Spatz retired from the Army was that he felt he could do the Air Force more good on the outside. For the first time, he is now preparing to speak his mind fearlessly in a flood of magazine and newspaper articles.

Unhappy by military restrictions, Spatz will tell bluntly how he thinks America should meet the threat of another war. He will also warn that the United States will have two independent air forces on its hands as long as the Navy is given free rein in the air.

Merry-Go-Round
When newly elected G.O.P. Chairman Scott of Philadelphia walked into the first meeting of the Republican National Committee, only four members recognized their new boss. He was really appointed by Joe "High Tariff" Grundy to make sure Pennsylvania gets its share of jobs.

The battle between Pennsylvania's Governor Jim Duff and the Martin-Grundy machine didn't just happen at Philadelphia. For some time Duff has been trying to build up a revitalized, progressive Republicanism, with Grundy-Martin desperately trying to block him.

Now that Dewey has given Pennsylvania's huge chunk of 40,000 Federal jobs to the Grundy-Martin machine, it will go merrily forward. Progressive Republicanism in Pennsylvania is out.

Stan Arnold of "Star Spangled Banner," who loves history-probing, points out that no Democratic Vice President who became President because of death in the White House has never been re-elected. All who have been re-elected were Republicans. Truman's chances to break the precedent are poor.

President in Next Few Days Must Decide What to Do as Regards Welfare of His Party

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 2.—President Truman has a difficult choice to make in the next ten days—he must decide between personal ambition and the future of the Democratic party not only in the 1948 election but in 1952 as well.

Mr. Truman can be nominated—presidential pressure can always accomplish that result—but if he is defeated in November, as seems so certain now, he will put the Democratic party back anywhere from eight to twelve years. It takes that long for a party whose organization and morale has been wrecked to get back into the running again.

The Democrats were beaten in 1920, and it was not until twelve years later that the tide turned. The Republicans were beaten in 1932 and now, 16 years later, it is conceded that the people will vote for a change.

What then is the best strategy for the Democratic leadership? Is it better to satisfy Mr. Truman's personal desire for vindication at the convention or is it better for the party to honor him and for him to decide of his own volition not to be a candidate?

If Mr. Truman doesn't run, who should make the race? The logical man is Justice William O. Douglas. He, more than anybody else who has been mentioned, represents the true New Deal philosophy and the desire of the liberal Democrats for a candidate who can express intelligently the quasi-Socialistic doctrines which Mr. Truman has so often tried incoherently to express.

Mr. Truman has turned toward the "left" but has not been consistently on the side. He has not followed New Dealism as much as the New Dealers would have liked. Yet at the same time, he has antagonized the "right" and many people in the "center." It is logical for him to step aside and let a 100 per cent New Dealer take up an aggressive leadership for the party.

This will not mean that the Democrats, but it looks as if the southerners cannot take the leadership away from the radicals either. So the natural thing is for both sides to fight it out, as compromise seems impracticable. In the end, the southern Democrats might, of course, be able to find a common ground with the Republicans on the civil-rights program.

While Justice Douglas is probably not at heart any different from Mr. Truman on the civil-rights issue, he might be able to come forth with a statement that will satisfy the south. Justice Douglas would, of course, have to resign from the bench to accept the nomination. He is a good speaker and would make a colorful campaign.

But if Mr. Truman runs and is defeated, nobody will be able to reorganize the Democratic party until new leadership develops in the 1952 contest. This means a loss of four important years.

If Mr. Douglas runs and is defeated, he makes an impressive campaign, the way is opened to development of a new era inside the Democratic party. The younger liberals would be in command. It would seem that Henry Wallace would, under such circumstances, come back into the fold.

Mr. Truman can insist on running, take a severe defeat, and prove nothing by his attitude. He will prove in November only that he should have stepped aside at the nominating convention. He will not prove that the policies espoused by the younger New Dealers were presented effectively to the people. He will retard those advocates of social progress, who think that the Franklin Roosevelt programs and reforms still constitute a major alternative to the liberal conservatism offered by the Republican ticket.

Mr. Douglas would make a better race than Mr. Truman because a new personality would come on the scene. The "change" which the country wants would be satisfied in part at least by a change in the leadership of the Democratic party. General Eisenhower is a better advertised name but apparently he cannot be persuaded to accept the nomination. If President Truman put his whole influence behind the man, Justice Douglas and if the Wallace movement joined in, the presidential campaign would be a clear-cut contest between rival philosophies of government and the people would see a very interesting campaign.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, July 1.—Wherever Bubblehead Wallace went in his sordid masquerade as a friend of the common man, the town reporters wrote frisky descriptions of the tailboard clowning of William S. Gailmor, the thief who wheeled the money out of the crowds. The fact that this gapping Mortimer Snerd, who was Vice President of the United States for four years, selected a notorious thief to handle the loot for him and his party, is a reliable measure of his mental balance.

The citizens may never learn what vastly greater lunacies he committed when he was not only Vice President but chairman of the Board of Economic Warfare by Roosevelt's appointment. In that position, armed with special powers and protected by an iron curtain of "security," he had a billion to squander and he spent it on the household gods of his spiritual home the secret yeast which makes the atom bomb go boom and all the plans and formulae that other agents of the government couldn't keep out of his hands. He once told me that there was nothing he would not do to help Russia and on that basis, he may take it that whatever Wallace had access to, Stalin has now. Agents of Congress have found evidence of Henry's generosity to Russia, but they have learned also that he had the mumbling cunning of a town butt and managed to conceal fact in well-designed confusion. We may never know all that he did or what happened to the money.

The false character of a compassionate and utterly generous Mahatma, with insinuations of divinity that has been painted on Wallace by a few dreary Washington gadabouts of the corps of press club pundits, is an alarming reproach to the publishers who let such fools run wild. There are not ten journalists in the whole capital whose writing deserves the recognition of the byline, and none of the Wallace cult, living or dead, ever was among the wise. Yet, by repetition of their proposition that there was a saintly asset, they blew this bang-shaker full of the same gas that so expanded Hitler that he blotted out the God of Christianity, the sun, moon and stars, and reason itself.

It is an affront to intelligence to ask us to believe that Wallace did not know he had a thief for a tub-thumper at his rallies. But we can grant that Gailmor either muscled into the troupe to do the best he could for himself or that the Communists put him there knowing his indifference to the inhibitions of honesty and his incapacity for shame. In either case, the Communists, having unshakable suspicion of one another in all fiduciary matters, undoubtedly watched him during the counting and frisked him for forgotten jack.

Henry Love, in the San Diego Union, gave an excellent description of Gailmor's work on tour with Wallace.

"Evangelistic methods were used by William Gailmor, Wallace's New York fund-raising specialist," Mr. Love wrote. "The collection of collections was not announced immediately. At the climax of his talk, Gailmor asked the audience to take out $1 bills. 'Don't give them to the ushers,' he said 'We want a demonstration here tonight. Stand up and wave the bills. We want a picture of the people giving in mass support. Wave the bills! Now, ushers, get those!'"

About the same time—this was in May—Charlie Chaplin, the stinging man in Hollywood, was photographed at a Wallace meeting in Hollywood, waving a slip of paper on which he had written, as a check for $1,000. His current wife, his third child bride when he got her, was waving something which the caption described as a bill. She wore a mink coat. Not all of them get mink coats from Chaplin. One stage-struck kid got a picture of the man, the press, a rush out of Beverly Hills with a steamer ticket to Omaha and a shoebox of station sandwiches.

For another phase of Henry Wallace's feeling for the so-called common man, I lead you to a tenement house in New York City. It was a check for $1,000. His current wife, his third child bride when he got her, was waving something which the caption described as a bill. She wore a mink coat. Not all of them get mink coats from Chaplin. One stage-struck kid got a picture of the man, the press, a rush out of Beverly Hills with a steamer ticket to Omaha and a shoebox of station sandwiches.

Hudson Pollution Brings Ban on Palisades Bathing

Bear Mountain, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Hudson river pollution has led the Palisades Interstate Park Commission to ban bathing from the 18 miles of shoreline under its jurisdiction.

New York state beaches at south Nyack and Haverstraw are principally affected.

The ban was announced yesterday by A. K. Morgan, chief engineer and general manager of the commission, and was effective immediately.

Morgan said the bacterial count of the water is "above safe conditions."

R. C. Sweeney, district sanitation engineer of the New York State Health Department, who was called in conference, agreed after tests that the beaches must be closed. Sweeney said tests showed sewage pollution is three times the safety limit.

Morgan's order bans bathing on eight miles of New Jersey riverfront and ten miles of New York riverfront.

Inland bathing places in the park area are not affected. The commission assured persons planning Fourth of July week-end visits that the inland waters invite them. Lake Sebago and Lake Umbagog in the Bear Mountain-Harriman area, a swimming pool at Bear Mountain, and a swimming pool and wading pool in the Tullman mountain section are among the park facilities.

Lanning Is Appointed

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—State Bonus Director Leo V. Lanning of Buffalo, a World War I veteran, is the new director of the state division of veterans affairs. He was appointed to the $13,000-a-year post by Governor Dewey yesterday. He succeeds Edward J. Sherry of Westbury, who resigned March 31.

Six Children Shot Dead

Sydney, July 2 (AP)—Six children of an Australian family were found shot dead in bed today. Their father was charged with murder. Police found their bodies lying in a double bed in a three-room shack where they lived at Glen Innes in northern New South Wales. The children's ages ranged from two to 13. Their father, Charles Hall, 63, a laborer, is in a hospital under police guard. Their mother is in a maternity hospital, where she gave birth to a still born child last week. She has not been informed of the tragedy.

1,000 Persons Drowned

Foochow, China, June 29 (Delayed) (AP)—A sudden flash flood in the past three days drowned 1,000 persons here, left 200,000 homeless and destroyed 10,000 buildings. Heavy rains in the upper reaches of the Min river made the stream a raging torrent.

Camels can drink 12 or 15 gallons of water in half an hour.

Rev. Conrad Gives the Facts

Editor, The Freeman:

In answer to Mr. Morris Friedman's letter in the June 28th issue, I am sorry to hear that your issue about my letter printed June 23rd, he says that the pamphlet circulated at a recent Wallace rally by the A.L.P. spoke the truth relative to a meeting held in the Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion Church, at which a coalition group of Kingston negro people and the A.L.P. discussed plans for the formation of a local negro youth center. I want to agree that they were there, but I ask Morris Friedman to tell the people of Kingston how they came to be there.

I'll tell you myself—they were there in that meeting by false representation of the whole affair to me, for had I known beforehand, what was revealed at that meeting, my church would never have been opened to them. Now, briefly, these are the facts, a member of my race group, not a member of my church, however, called me up and asked the privilege of a group of our people to meet and talk over the need of a community center for recreational activities for our teen age boys and girls which I thought was a mighty fine thing, and in which I was heartily in accord.

She also informed me that she had talked the matter over with Dr. Bibby who advised her to ask my permission for the use of our church for the meeting and that he, Dr. Bibby, would be present. Since then I have learned from Dr. Bibby, and I have his permission to quote him, that he did not so advise. Of this, I was not aware at the time.

The night of the meeting I went in expecting to find my folks gathered for what I was led to believe would be a conference on the subject suggested. Morris Friedman, whom at that time I did not know, sat with the leader of the meeting, Mrs. Armstrong of Gage street, and he called the meeting strong to state the purpose of the meeting which she did in her way and while not exactly as she had originally stated to me. I did not take that departure seriously. I soon discovered that there was more in it than was indicated in the original request.

I then asked her where was Dr. Bibby for I was expecting him according to what she had informed me, and immediately, Morris Friedman answered for her, and these are his words, "Dr. Bibby could not be here and he asked me to represent him." I said to him, I don't know you. Now Dr. Bibby has given me permission to quote him and he categorically denies having talked with Morris Friedman, and having delegated him (Friedman) to represent him (Dr. Bibby) at that meeting.

I then noted my disapproval of the proceedings and requested them not to advertise my church in the press or over the radio in this matter and after a short while they adjourned.

So when one of the members of my church called my attention to the pamphlet in question advertising the meeting of the A.L.P. for Wallace Movement, headed with the statement of this coalition meeting in my church, after having asked them to make no further publicity of my church in this matter, the meeting which was secured there by false representation of its purpose to me, I issued the letter of June 23rd.

Let me make this clear to all concerned, the Franklin Street Church and its pastor, is not in politics, and does not care what this man Friedman and his followers believe politically and are trying to do. I will defend to the limit the church of which I am the spiritual head.

I know only too well that there are prejudices against my people, not in Kingston, but throughout the U.S. These must be overcome, and all informed people must know that great progress has been made and is being made year after year. I am not in opposition to any movement looking forward to the betterment of the condition of my people in Kingston. What I am resenting is the subtle move by this man Morris Friedman, chairman of the Kingston A.L.P., by false representation involving my church in their methods.

Our problems, if problems they be, can and will be solved in the church by intelligent following of the teachings of Jesus Christ.

I have no disposition or wish to carry this letter writing further, only to say that I do not think Morris Friedman, chairman of the Kingston A.L.P., for involving the Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion Church in this manner.

Already he has succeeded in bringing about a dissension and confusion of our people to the point of bitter feelings that bode no good for the future success and harmony and good-will which should prevail among us.

I think the recent action of the ministers of Kingston in the selection of myself as president of their association, an honor never before conferred on one of my race here, is evidence of the good-will and intentions of our white friends to forget prejudices and work together for the common good of all.

Thanking you for this indulgence.

such legal person as "the people of the United States," so without embarrassment Hersh went to court and grabbed back the skyscraper for himself. He is still Henry Wallace's friend, confidant and partisan. He was planted in a key position in the Department of Commerce by Wallace with the purpose of letting the shipment of anything whatsoever to Soviet Russia. He says he is poor but he still owns the skyscraper and has a summer place at New Canaan, Conn. Hersh still lives in the lamazery in the Drive while Jim and Mrs. Minnerley exist in the east side slum.

Mrs. Minnerley has given me a $1,000 bond, a bank-note job, the yellow tint of our old gold teeth. It isn't worth a dam. I profess none of the knack of Wallace's trained thief in stimulating the humane juices.

But I would be glad to accept and deliver to these victims any contributions that might be sent to me at King Features Syndicate, 235 East 45th Street, New York 17, N. Y. Dollar bills, fives, tens, checks, money-orders or change will be acceptable. I promise to see that the forgotten man, and his wife, of the great lamazery deal, get every cent of the money.

Come on, as Wallace's thief said in San Diego, we want a demonstration. Stand up and wave those bills. We want a picture of the people giving in mass redemption of the phoney pledge by which the Minnerleys and other poor suckers gave up their savings to build a temple of a phoney red promoted by Bubblehead Wallace, which then bounced back to Bubblehead's all, Louie Hersh.

When the kitty reaches $1,000 we will formally deliver the phoney bond to Bubblehead with the compliments of the common man.

Five Young Folk Held for Robbing Summer Colony

Leighton, Pa., July 2 (AP)—A 21-year-old Florida youth has been charged with burglary and four teen-agers, including a 15-year-old girl, sent to detention homes on charges they terrorized a summer colony at Preachers Camp in Carbon county before being captured Tuesday.

State Police said the five shot up unoccupied summer cottages and stole jewelry, clothing and food following their arrival in this vicinity Monday in a car stolen at Goshen, N. Y.

Ernest J. Olszowski of Auburn, Pa., who was captured Tuesday, pleaded guilty and was lodged in the Carbon county prison to await trial of burglary charges.

The others fled into the woods and were captured Wednesday after police used a plane to locate them. The four included the girl's 15-year-old brother, a 14-year-old cousin and another 15-year-old boy.

10 Union Leaders Must Be At Hearing on Reds

Washington, July 2 (AP)—Subpoenas went out today for 10 labor leaders described in congressional testimony as the "hard core of left-wing union leadership" in New York.

Chairman Hartley (D-N.J.) of the House Labor Committee, who announced this, said the 10 have been ordered to appear next Wednesday before a subcommittee hearing in New York (Room 618, Federal Bldg., Foley Square, 9 a. m. E.S.T.).

The subcommittee headed by Rep. Kirsten (R-Wis.) was scheduled to wind up three days of hearings on Capitol Hill today on its investigation into the infiltration of Communist leaders in American labor unions.

Hartley said subpoenas were issued for:

Nicholas Carnes, president, Local 1250, of the C.I.O.-United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employees Union; George Meisler, vice-president of Local 1250; David Livingston, vice-president, Local 65; Irvin Wodlin, of Local Two; Anna Blum, business agent, Local Two; Sadie Brown, of Local Five; Arthur Ogan, president, Local 65; Carl Andron, of Local Three; Sam Lewis, business manager, Local Three; and William Michelson, business manager, Local Two.

These 10 were described in the current hearings by Louis Brodsky, vice president of Gimbel Bros., as the "hard core" of alleged Communist leaders in New York department store unions.

A subpoena for the same hearing also was issued for Nathan Solomon, president of Local 830. He was not named in any of the testimony before the Kirsten group.

The state's two surviving Civil War veterans are James A. Hard, 106, of Rochester, and Robert Rowland, 101, of Troy.

Horton, born in the town of Windsor, Mass., enlisted December 23, 1861, five days before his 15th birthday. He came to Troy in 1915.

Diservice Is Charged

New York, July 2 (AP)—A clergyman-editor says the 300 Protestant ministers who recently advocated that American youth defy the draft law have "rendered their faith a tragic disservice." The statement was made yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald Magazine and a member of President Truman's civilian advisory committee on university military training. He said he does not believe the youth of this country would heed the advice of the group of ministers "to refuse to register or to serve in the armed forces."

The ministers, Dr. Poling said, "do not represent" but "misrepresent the overwhelming majority of their fellow churchmen."

Tammany Hall Is Called Gutter Club By Mayor O'Dwyer

New York, July 2 (AP)—Mayor William O'Dwyer has declared open war on the ruling faction of Tammany Hall, calling it a "gutter club" and assailing many of its leaders as "scoundrels."

O'Dwyer, a Democrat from Brooklyn, announced yesterday he will help build a new party organization to purge numerous chieftains of Manhattan's historic Tammany.

"Leave the present Tammany Hall down in the gutter where it belongs," he declared at a news conference.

The mayor, a former policeman and racket-busting district attorney, called for a new organization to represent the "good thinking" Democrats of Manhattan.

O'Dwyer, launching a Tammany "purification" last year, forced the election of Frank Samsom as leader of the hall. But district leaders ganged up on Samsom, and he was unable to maintain control.

The climax came a few days ago when the Tammany Executive Committee turned down the O'Dwyer-Samsom choice for the post of president of the hall. A grand jury is investigating reports that money was paid in the Tammany selection of a man for the party nomination.

The Tammany Committee majority designated General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente for surrogate, a judicial officer who handles wills and estates worth many millions and distributes heavy political patronage.

The mayor and Samsom backed City Council President Vincent R. Impellitteri for the post.

O'Dwyer, who has begun lopping Valente supporters and their satellites from the public payroll, was supported by Tammany in his campaign for mayor. Tammany then had Samsom through 12 years while the late Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia and his fusion forces ran the city.

Tammany Hall's social and political arm—the Society of Tammany or Columbian Order—held an Independence Day dinner last night to commemorate the 182nd anniversary of its founding. Members were set for more than 100, but only 55 members were counted present. A congratulatory message from President Truman was read.

Judge Needs Time On Paternity Suit

Cullum, Ala., July 2 (AP)—A circuit court judge was considering today the request of a red-haired divorcee that he dismiss her paternity suit against Governor James E. Folsom of Alabama.

Judge James H. Crow, Jr., took the petition under advisement yesterday after he had dismissed a companion suit naming Folsom as the common-law husband of Mrs. Christine Putnam Johnston.

Mrs. Johnston had asked that both suits be dropped because, she said, they had been used in political attacks on the governor.

The court dismissed the common-law marriage petition "without prejudice," which enables the 30-year-old divorcee to file a new suit if she desires.

But the judge said, he needed more time to study the paternity case, alleging that Folsom is the father of Mrs. Johnston's two-year-old son, James Douglas.

Attorneys for Folsom asked both cases be dropped "with prejudice," thus barring any future action.

Kingman Shelburne, Birmingham attorney who filed the original suits for Mrs. Johnston and her son last March 2, opposed dismissal of the paternity action. He argued that dropping the case would violate the child's rights.

Body Is Recovered

Rangleys, Md., July 2 (AP)—The body of William Hillig, 20, of College Point, New York, who died in a swimming accident last Saturday on his wedding trip, floated to the surface of Haley Pond last night and was recovered. Hillig, boating with his bride, failed to appear after the last of several surface dives he made in the muddy-bottomed pond.

Camp Opens Sunday
The 1948 season at Camp Tri-Mount, the summer camp of Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America, opens Sunday, July 4, at the East Jewett site. Val W. Morrow, council camping and activities chairman, announced today that the camp is in readiness for the influx of campers from all over the two-county territory of the council. Many innovations will be made in the camp program and much new equipment has been added to provide the finest camping experience for boys available in this section.

The camp staff is, as follows: William Vermandois and Charles Boardman, council field scout executives will be camp director and assistant respectively. Peter K. Rider of Highland and John G. of Marlborough will be unit scoutmasters. Deane Turner of Auburn will direct waterfront activities and Donald Hendrickson of Kingston will be his assistant. Raymond Hendrickson of Kingston will be in charge of handicraft instruction. William W. of Kingston will be camp clerk and James Sass of Kingston will be camp bugler.

Percy North of Kingston will have charge of the dining hall and he will have three Scouts helping him with dishwashing and cleanup. These boys for the first two weeks of camp will be Tom Elsbree of New Paltz and Frank Dailey of Port Ewen.

An experienced camp chef, Thor Anderson of Jamestown will be in charge of the kitchen. "Andy" as he is known to Scout campers all over upper New York state and in Maine will thrill the campers with his famous camp meals.

Much of the camp program this year will be given over to real Scout adventuring, hiking, overnight hiking, nature study, life saving and swimming, and the making of real personal camping equipment. Campers will have opportunity to make tents, pack frames and cooking gear of the variety that is easily packed by one person.

On Thursday, July 8, the cubmasters, scoutmasters and senior unit leaders of the council will be the guests of the camp at dinner and will take part in the regular evening campfire on that date.

Would Stop 'Manana'
Los Angeles, July 2 (AP)—A couple of song writers have asked for an injunction to stop the singing of the hit tune "Manana." They also want a million dollars damages. Sterling Sherwin and Harry K. McClintock filed suit in Federal Court yesterday claiming "Manana" is a note-for-note infringement of the music in their song "Midnight on the Ocean," published in 1932. The suit is directed against singer Peggy Lee, her husband, guitar player Dave Barbour, Capitol Songs, Inc., Radio Corporation of America and several recording companies. Sherwin and McClintock claim the defendants stole their song and

Phone Workers Carry Pay Demand to Public

New York, July 2 (AP)—Telephone equipment workers, carrying their pay increase demands to the public, marched with placards in front of 70 major telephone exchanges from coast to coast yesterday, their union said.

Daniel Harris, vice-president of the C.I.O. Association of Communication Equipment Workers, said the few union members who walked off the job yesterday in Detroit were expected to return today.

The union members install and repair communication equipment for the Western Electric Company, a manufacturing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The union's national bargaining committee has been authorized by the membership to call a strike, if necessary, to enforce a demand for a pay rise of 31 cents an hour. The union says the average pay is $1.15 an hour, and more than half the workers get less than $1.

The placard carrying does not constitute a picket line, the union has emphasized, and no attempt will be made to persuade any one not to enter a telephone building.

Dewey Is Present At Marcus Rites

West Point, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Col. David Marcus—who won two decorations in the U. S. Army in World War 2 and later was killed while leading Israeli troops in Jerusalem—was buried yesterday with military honors here where he learned the art of soldiering.

Marcus, former New York city commissioner of correction, was buried at the U. S. Military Academy exactly 28 years from the day he arrived as a plebe from Brooklyn.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, with whom he had served in the U. S. attorney's office in Manhattan, attended the burial.

Major Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, superintendent of the academy, stood at the grave with the governor. Twenty-four West Point classmates of Marcus formed a guard of honor.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., former secretary of the treasury, was among those present. Dr. Sidney S. Todesche, rabbi of Union Temple in Brooklyn where funeral services were held earlier in the day, read the burial service. At the grave were two officers of the Israeli army who accompanied Marcus' body which was flown to New York Wednesday.

As the cortege moved here from New York city, members of Col. Marcus' old regiment, the 165th Infantry, New York National Guard, were drawn up at the entrance of Camp Smith.

After the Brooklyn service, the cortege had stopped at New York City Hall where Mayor William O'Dwyer and other officials paid silent tribute at brief ceremonies. Marcus, 47, was killed June 10, leading troops, he had helped to train.

Your Move

A preacher whose congregation regularly spurn seats in the front of the church was surprised to see one man, a stranger, in the very first row. After the sermon, the pastor asked the man why he sat down in front. The man replied that, being a bus driver, he wanted to find out how the preacher got people to move to the rear. Pathfinder.

Formal Education Lacking, Actress Says in Interview

Woodstock, July 1—Lillian Gish, whom many in these parts saw in the recent appearance on local screens of Duel in the Sun, and who is now starting at the Woodstock Playhouse in Noel Coward's play, The Marquise, makes some very interesting observations on formal education in our schools and colleges.

Self-educated, Miss Gish never attended any school. Stage hands taught her the alphabet and nursery rhymes. She has no patience with the stereotyped product of what she calls typical American educational institutions. In her opinion, the formal training provided by even the best known universities and secondary schools leaves nothing but an encrusted residue of phrase and manner, quite irrelevant to the issues which must be faced today.

Many will agree with the arguments and ideas advanced by this celebrated actress and citizen, who has achieved such high honors through her own initiative. Coincidentally, in an editorial which appeared recently in The Kingston Daily Freeman wherein the suggestions of Dr. George H. Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, speaking at the Colgate University commencement, were stated. In part, the editorial read: "If a college degree is to be accepted as a sign of an educated person, why give it at the end of the college course, when it is too soon to tell whether the new graduate is really educated or not. Why not wait 10 years to see whether his academic training has enabled him to grow mentally and continue growing?" And again, "Perhaps, we need other degrees for those who at 10 or 25 years could present evidence of further growth and usefulness." If such a system were followed, there is no doubt but that Miss Gish, who is traditional in the American theatre would certainly qualify for the degree being bestowed.

This is Miss Gish's initial visit to Ulster county and the very first thing she remarked about upon entering the county was the wonderful change in air. For the past week she has been playing in Maryland and she no doubt found the change to the Catskill atmosphere most invigorating. Jerome Coray, Miss Gish's personal director, who is on tour with her in The Marquise, has expressed his enthusiasm not only for Woodstock but for the members of the resident company at the Playhouse. Said the well known director, "This is our second year of touring in The Marquise, and never have we had a more capable group to work with."

Woodstock, July 2—Between 20 and 30 members have so far indicated they will participate in the three-day tournament known as the Calcutta Sweepstakes beginning Saturday at the Woodstock Country Club. This event is open to members only and it is expected with good weather a much larger number will be entered.

Winners will be announced and prizes awarded at the conclusion of the tournament on Monday evening when a steak dinner will be served on the terrace beside the pool.

Allen Waterous, chairman, is still taking entries for the tournament and will continue doing so almost to the time of teeing off since many members do not arrive in Woodstock until Friday.

Catherine Donahue Award Made at Temple University

CATHERINE DONAHUE

Woodstock, July 2—The first Catherine A. Donahue memorial award was made to the graduate in the school of law having the highest grade in Wills and Decedent's Estates at the recent exercises of Temple University's 62nd annual commencement in Philadelphia.

As a tribute to their late colleague, judges and lawyers, through contributions, have endowed this award. During her years as a practicing lawyer, Miss Donahue, a graduate of Temple University in 1932, received recognition for her outstanding work in Wills and Decedent's Estates and served on that committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Association.

Miss Donahue was well-known in Woodstock where she came for long visits with her sister, Mrs. George Hard.

Max Reiter Seeks Recording of New Goodenough Music

Woodstock, July 2—Max Reiter, conductor of the San Antonio, Texas symphony orchestra, has requested a recording of the Piano Suite in five parts which Forrest Goodenough, the gifted young blind composer and pianist, will play during his premiere recital in Woodstock Saturday in the Town Hall.

The recital will start at 4 p. m. Goodenough has previously been heard in Woodstock but not in a complete recital. He has played with chamber music groups here.

The Piano Suite in which Reiter has shown interest, was completed last week and will be played Saturday afternoon.

Art Conference Is Attracting Notice

Woodstock, July 2—With the approach of the second annual Woodstock Art Conference to be sponsored by the Woodstock Artists Association in August, much attention is being given this event by New York newspapers. In last Sunday's New York Herald Tribune, Carlyle Burrows devoted his entire column to a review of the first conference held at the Art Students League last summer. A book embracing the lectures and discussions had during the conference has recently been published by the Artists Equity and edited by John D. Morse. The publication has been distributed and is on sale throughout the country.

It will be remembered that a comprehensive coverage was given in the Kingston Daily Freeman at the conclusion of the conference.

About the conference, Mr. Burrows says, "The conference was arranged for the purpose of obtaining expressions of opinion from a cluster of authorities, from the museum director, the collector, the author, critic and professional workers. It was not a forward to the publication, was the fact that the papers read by a galaxy of stars in the art world were of an interesting and the discussions they provoked so revealing, that funds for publishing them were immediately forthcoming."

The conference will be extended this year and will include a morning devoted to contemporary composers. The Woodstock Artists Association has great expectations for the future of these conferences which in time will include all of the arts.

While plans are still in a formative period, there is considerable talk of future musical festival in Woodstock similar to that of Tanglewood. The community boasts as its residents, outstanding musicians and composers. Practically every philharmonic orchestra in the country as well as the Metropolitan Opera, Orchestra is well represented here. This is also true of the theatre and writing fields. That is why the Woodstock Artists Association believe their annual conference will in time be a correlation of all the arts.

Maverick Festival Workers Are Willing

Woodstock, July 1—Many projects have been inaugurated since last summer when the traditional Maverick Festival was revived for the first time in many years. These projects all require sums of money in addition to the generous contributions already made and there the question is being asked, "Will there be a Maverick Festival this year?" and "who will do the work?"

Several of those who served so diligently to make the revival the magnificent success it was, have expressed their willingness to again take part this year.

Dutch Reformed Fair Will Be Held Saturday

Woodstock, July 1—The annual fair given by the ladies of the Dutch Reformed Church will be held on Saturday, July 3, beginning at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and will be followed by a dinner to be served at 5:30 and 6:30.

Those who are taking charge of the various tables and dinner are Mrs. LaMonte V. Simpkins, Mrs. Ida Riseley, aprons; the Misses Spiers, jewelry; Mrs. Earl Snyder, fancy table; Mrs. Harvey I. Todd, 25-cent table. Mrs. Kathleen Mower is chairman of the dinner committee. All of these ladies will be ably assisted by their committees.

Memorial Report Given by Treasurer

Kenneth L. Wilson was re-elected president of the Woodstock War Memorial Association at a meeting of the directors on Monday evening at the home of the Rev. Harvey I. Todd. Montcena DeWitt was elected vice-president, Grant Elwyn, secretary and the Rev. Mr. Todd, treasurer. It was learned from the treasurer's report that the association must meet a deficit of approximately $500 to meet the cost of work already authorized in anticipation of the association's contributions.

The treasurer's report on the situation follows:
Total contributions received to date $2,672.39
Paid for construction of Village Green Memorial $1,475.75
Paid for beginning of living memorial—Recreation project 1,000.00
Incidental expenses 183.92

Total expenditures 2,657.67
Balance on hand 14.52
The actual cost of the Village Green Memorial amounts to approximately $1,975.75.

In the beginning, it was estimated that memorial would not exceed $1,000 but it would have been difficult to ascertain the exact cost.

To meet the deficit, the board of directors has arranged to borrow $500 to pay the contractor. Contributions are eagerly being sought to meet this obligation and the Rev. Harvey I. Todd will be very happy to receive any and all contributions for this purpose.

Stated was the fact that the work on the living memorial project at the Athletic Field has been held up by wet weather which has not helped the serious drainage problem.

Recreation equipment amounting to $600 has been ordered and most of it has arrived awaiting the arrival of good weather. While the funds to put the field in really good condition are insufficient, President Wilson stated it will have to do for this year. Director Walter S. Van Wagenen is ready to start his program.

Appreciation was expressed to William Klementis for his effort in completing his work for the Memorial Day celebration. Those present also commented upon the fine quality of workmanship especially as regards the stonework done by Charlie Joy.

Billions for Death, Is Wallace Charge

New York, July 2 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace last night staged a one-man show about war and politics.

Appearing on the (CBS) "Presidential Timber" television show, the third-party presidential candidate used a collection of model war weapons as "props."

After pointing to each weapon and listing its cost, he said:

"The bi-party policy costs more than $20,000,000,000 a year. For guns and ships and planes the reactionary Republicans and Democrats pour out money by the billions. But for housing, for federal education, for real old age pensions, practically nothing. Billions for death—so little for life."

Pictures were shown on the screen of American children playing of a Chinese baby in a bombed building, of American soldiers, a military cemetery, an atom bomb explosion.

Then the screen flashed pictures of President Truman and Gov.

Thomas E. Dewey, and came back to Wallace.

"Where we have the leaders of the bi-party," he said. "One is just as bad as the other. Only the new party gives you a choice. The real choice is between life and laughter and weeping and death."

Good Taste Today By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

"TABLE MANNERS OF IMPORTANCE"

In answer to a young man's question: "If soup served in a cup may be drunk instead of using a spoon, then why does Mother always serve a spoon with it?" the following is quoted from my new leaflet "Table Manners of Importance."

Bouillon is tested for temperature by being sipped with the spoon. After that it is picked up by one or both handles and drunk. When thick soups are served in cups, you eat any solid part with the spoon and then either drink the rest or eat it with a spoon, as you prefer.

Wedding Present Problem
Dear Mrs. Post: The daughter of a very dear friend of my childhood and school days will be married very soon. When this school friend of mine went away to college, his family moved elsewhere, but always I have cherished the memory of a wonderful friendship even though he passed away many years ago. He married away from here and so I never have met his wife nor his daughter. I'm not even sure that his widow ever heard my name. And yet I would love to send his daughter a wedding present. Would this be correct?

Answer: I would suggest that you do what you think he would like you to do. If you think "Yes," select a small but choice gift and write under your name, "from a very old friend of your father's."

Regarding Sending of Wedding Invitations
Dear Mrs. Post: (1) How far in advance should my engraved wedding invitations be mailed? (2) How should the envelope be addressed in each of these instances: (a) Father and unmarried daughter (b) Mother and unmarried son (c) Mother and unmarried daughter?

Answer: (1) Two weeks is the usual time but this is not a fixed rule. (2a) "Mr. Henry Jones and underneath 'Miss Ruth Jones.'" (2b) Separate envelopes. (2c) "Mrs. John Smith with 'Miss Mary Smith' on line below."

Girl Smokes—Man Does Not
Dear Mrs. Post: I am a non-smoker and most of the girls I know are, too. Occasionally, however, I do take one one girl who smokes and I wonder if I should buy cigarettes and keep them on hand for her to smoke?

Answer: If you don't smoke, there is no reason why you should be carrying them—especially as smokers always do.

Clark Mains Beats Frank's Sport, 10-2, in City League Debut

High School Ace Yields Four Hits and Fans Ten in Game

The Chamber invites other merchants to participate as certificates will be needed for all future games.

Softball Scores

Sickler's Delivery shut out B'nai Brith, 10 to 0 behind the brilliant 5-hit pitching of Decker in a City Softball League yesterday at Salsler's diamond.

The winners raked Weinberger for 13 safeties, including home runs by Jack Fuzzo and Bob Hunt. Five of the Sickler players had two hits each.

Sickler's opened with a three-run blast in the first inning to settle the issue. They scored in five of their seven times at bat.

Score by innings:

Sickler's	10	1

Clark Mains, Kingston High School's distinguished young right hander, made his first start in the City Baseball League and found the competition not unlike the DUSO. He never was beaten in the DUSO League and his impressive 10-2 victory over Frank's Sport Shop yesterday indicated he will be able to grope his way around the twilight circuit.

The stolid blond permitted only four scattered hits, struck out ten and survived six indiscretions by his teammates on defense.

Teams Make 14 Errors

Mains' debut was spoiled to a degree by the lackluster performance of Frank's who committed no less than eight errors for an aggregate total of 14 during the contest. This could be a seasonal record.

Chester Emile's refurbished lineup, springing forth with high school and college talent, managed ten hits off a quartet of the two cousins—Tom and Jackie Watzka—but were credited with only three earned runs.

Crosby Batting Star

Tom Watzka started and left the game during a five run barge in the fourth. Jackie Watzka finished up.

Link Crosby captured individual batting honors with a triple and two singles while Ray Lindhurst and Bob Bush tagged a couple of backstops each. Mains aided his own cause with a double.

Mains gave up his first run in the third on Tiano's single, steal of second and Bill Olsen's single. Frank's picked up their second marker in the sixth on Olsen's walk. Davis' hit and Buddy Smith's error.

It was an easy, deliberate victory for Mains clouded by the miserable performance in the field by both clubs. The two fans will have to wait for another day to see Mains subjected to real pressure in the twilight loop.

Major League Roundup

By The Associated Press

By RALPH RODEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Sam, Boston Braves right hander, has reached the half way mark in his bid to become the first National League pitcher since Mort Cooper to win 20 games three years in a row.

Sain, a native of Belleville, Ark., pitched the league leading Braves to a 4-1 victory over the New York Giants yesterday for his 10th victory. He's the first senior circuit finger to win 10 this season and now has a 10-5 record.

The soft-spoken 29-year-old hurler has won seven of his last eight starts and appears a cinch to reach the coveted 20.

Elliott Homers

The Boston ace held the Giants to four singles yesterday. Two of them helped produce the Giants' lone run in the opening inning.

The Braves tied the count in the second on Bob Elliott's sixth home run and won it in the seventh when Tommy Holmes belted a three-run double.

The victory enabled the Braves to increase their lead over the runner-up Cardinals to two and a half games. The Cards dropped a 4-3 decision to the Cubs in Chicago.

Andy Pafko drove in all of Chicago's runs, doubling home a marker in the first and blasting a three-run homer in the seventh.

The third place Pittsburgh Pirates knocked off the Reds, 5-2 in Cincinnati. A seven run first inning rally against Mickey Harris enabled the Yanks to win. Red Sox slugger Ted Williams went hitless to end his consecutive game hitting streak at 16.

In a night game at St. Louis, the Browns scored three runs in the eighth inning to snap a 5-3 tie and went on to beat the Chicago White Sox, 8-5.

Colonials Face Greys, Black Yanks Over 4th

Maisel, Muller Likely Hurlers

Semi-pro baseball reaches a seasonal peak over the week-end the Kingston Colonials engaging two of the top names in independent baseball—the New York Black Yankees of the Negro National League and the powerful Springfield Greys.

Gus Maisel, ace right hander who was brilliant against the House of David and Jim Barton Nighthawks will pitch against the popular Black Yankees in Saturday night's game.

Good Weather Predicted

Warren Muller, ace southpaw or Billy Windburn, City League star, is scheduled to go against the Springfield Greys in the Sunday attraction.

With perfect weather conditions predicted, the Colonials are looking forward to two big crowds. Black Yankees long have been one of the most popular Negro clubs to visit here, while the Greys are one of the best known clubs in the Metropolitan Baseball Association.

The Black Yankees will feature some of the best known players in colored baseball, among them the immortal John "Neck" Stanley, one of the all-time sepias pitching greats; Marvin Barker, hard-hitting third sacker; Johnny Hayes, one of the best catchers in the Negro baseball and a host of others.

Springfield Greys have a pair of standout flingers in Wally Fuchs and George Robinson, a former Fordham University star. Other M.B.A. stars include George Klaus, Roy Triebel, Tommy Winslow, George Dillingham, Fred Reis and Johnny Reis, a fine catcher.

The Colonials will be subjected to heavy pressure to keep their record above the .500 mark in the two holiday engagements.

Gus Maisel Set

Manager Joe Hoffman expressed confidence in Gus Maisel's ability to check the Black Yankees. "Maisel is one of the best pitchers ever to wear a Kingston uniform," says the Colonial skipper. "He has poise, savvy and a lot of stuff. With Warren Muller's health uncertain, it looks like Maisel will be our No. 1 choice against the heavy clubs."

The Colonial record shows victories over the Jersey City Clouts, Macks, House of David and Jim Barton Nighthawks, with losses to the New York Cubans, San Juan Stars and New York Fire Department.

No Man's Land

No Man's Land—a term used during World War I—dates from the fourteenth century, when No Man's Land was a piece of waste ground outside London, often used for executions.

Touching All the Bases

(A Softball Review)

— with —
JAKE CHICHELSKY

An Immortal Athlete:

We'd like to recall a great sports personality who performed on our softball diamonds as a member of numerous teams in the pre-war era. We believe all sports fans remember Jimmy Albany. He was killed in action during the Italian campaign. Jimmy was a great softball pitcher and belonged in that stellar array of top-notchers that included Big Ben Toffel, "Coke" Costello and Bob Balfe.

Jimmy Albany can be held as a symbol to all sports-loving kids. One of the reasons why he was such a popular athlete was his fine sense of sportsmanship and character. Jimmy was a clean living fellow who believed in sportsmanship in any game he played. We know his brothers, Tony and Joe, are following in his footsteps. . . . We would like to see the day when his son grows up and exemplifies his fine ideals.

A Great Team of the Past:

During the 1941 season the Junior City Softball League boasted one of the strongest outfits ever to perform on a local softball diamond. They were the Bombers, who played a spectacular brand of ball that season. A colorful team to watch on any occasion. Eddie Luczewski, field captain of the team, always had his men playing heads-up, inspired softball. . . . Eddie is the only member of that renowned squad still active in softball and plays with the high-powered Immaculate Conception team of the Catholic A.A. Among the personnel of the 1941 Bombers were Ken Demski, speedball artist and Dick "Flash" Howard, pitcher; Hank Trice and Mike Levy, catchers; Larry Weinberger, Danny Howard, Freddie Schryver and Bill Schacht, infielders; Luczewski played shortfield (since abolished), while Ed Radel, "Link" Crosby and Bob McCutcheon were the outfielders.

Girls Softball Games:

We are amazed that some of our energetic female athletes haven't organized a softball program. In the pre-war years a girls city softball group was sponsored by the industrial plants. Starting a league would be out of the question this season but we think a strong squad still could be formed. They could represent Kingston against competition against outside squads. We think a willing sponsor could be found to purchase uniforms and equipment for the girls. They could play Sunday ball at the Athletic Field. How about it, girls?

FAMOUS LAST WORDS: Does anyone remember when Kenny Van Etten nearly collapsed after clearing the bases on a homer? It occurred when Ken played with Canfields in the City Industrial League. . . . Could it have been a Ballantine Blast?

Senator Wicks Epuips Outfit

The Downtown Republican Club, a newly-organized baseball club sponsored by Senator Arthur H. Wicks, will return baseball to the downtown section for the first time in nearly a decade on Sunday when it meets the American Legion Juniors at Block Park at 2:30.

The Republican Club will attempt to revive baseball on a hallowed diamond which once boasted of such renowned power-houses as the Gully's and Rondout A.C. and numerous other clubs of the past.

Personnel of the Republican baseball nine has not been announced but it was pointed out that the roster was open to any young boy interested in baseball regardless of political affiliations of the ball player.

Senator Wicks, realizing the need of the downtown youth for equipment and uniforms, decided to completely outfit the club. He expressed the hope that every boy in the Block Park section would try out for the squad.

The Republican Club is scheduled to travel to Kerhonkson on Monday.

More Marriage Licenses In June Than Since '46

More marriage licenses were issued in this city last month than in any one month since September, 1946, according to records at the city clerk's office. Total number of licenses issued during the first six months of this year, however, were less than that for the same periods in 1946 and 1947.

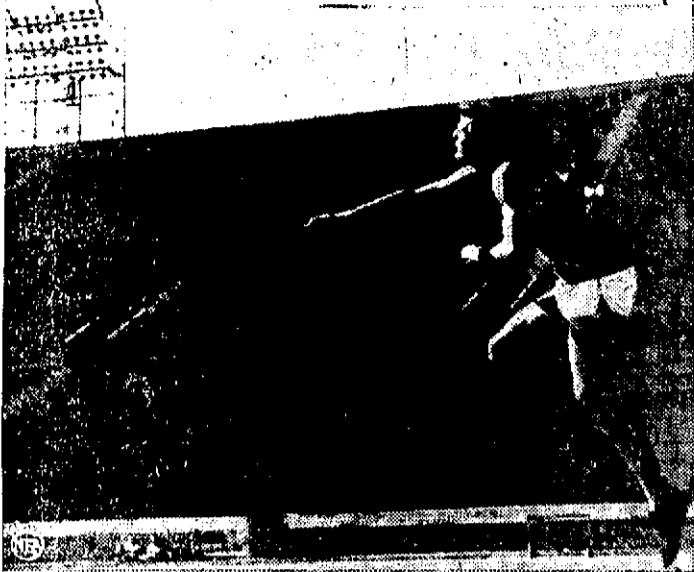

In June of this year, 50 licenses to wed were issued by the city clerk here. This was the greatest number issued in one month since the post-war rush in 1946, when 52 licenses were issued in August and an equal number in September. The next was 43 in April. During the first six months of this year 194 licenses were issued here, compared with 204 in the same period of 1947 and 228 in 1946.

Youth in the Decathlon

Bob Mathias headed for the national championships and final Games trials as America's top Olympic prospect in the decathlon. Mathias, 17-year-old Tulare, Calif., prep school wonder, captured the Southern Pacific AAU championship in Los Angeles, piling up 7004 points, more than anyone has accumulated since before the war. While none of his marks is outstanding, the six-foot two-inch, 190-pound youngster is unique in that he has no weakness, is equally at home throwing the javelin or hurdling.

Bobby Sox Bride Is Committed to Convent

New Orleans, July 2 (AP)—A 12-year-old bride is spending a court ordered, husbandless honeymoon in a convent here.

The girl, Mrs. Harriet Phyllis Hovland Detillier, parked a big wad of chewing gum in a wastebasket yesterday as Judge Anna V. Levy committed her to the Convent of the Good Shepherd. The convent cares for delinquent girls because the city has no home for them.

The child's 18-year-old husband, Roy Detillier, faces a hearing on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He is at liberty under bond.

The couple was married one night early in June when the young girl left home to buy an ice cream cone. Marrying Peace Justice Joseph Campagna of St. Bernard Parish said Mrs. Detillier gave her age in an affidavit as 18.

During her hearing yesterday the lobby saw bride eagerly exchanged stags whispers with her husband as they sat six feet apart in an anteroom.

Slayer Is Executed

Ossining, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Anthony Papa, 28-year-old child slayer, died in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison last night. Papa was shot at the end. Yesterday, he had complained about the heat, saying "it's awful hot along with my other troubles." He was convicted of first degree murder on October 12, 1947, for slaying six-year-old Rose Marie Fusco in her Mineola, N. Y., home the preceding April.

Victoriously waving her trophy at you is Parisian beauty, Jacqueline Morency, 20, who was named "Miss Bathing Beauty of 1948." Jacqueline, a hairdresser, was over 25 girls in the contest. (Photo by NEA-Acme staff correspondent Rene Henry.)

Brooklyn Girl Is 'Girls State' Governor

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Louis Buono of Brooklyn takes office today as "governor" of the Empire Girls' State.

The day's schedule called for Miss Buono to be sworn in by Miss Ruth Minter, deputy secretary of state, and for the 248 girls participating in the model government project to hear talks by Governor Dewey and Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley in the Assembly chamber.

A bill proposing that Regents examinations be abolished was on the program.

Miss Buono was elected yesterday in a "Federalist Party" sweep of top posts in the Empire Girls' State. The opposition at the mock convention, held at Saratoga Springs, represented the "Nationalist Party."

Ann McGinley of Middletown was elected lieutenant governor. The American Legion Auxiliary sponsored the project.

Red Cross to Open Swim Courses at 10 A.M. on Tuesday

With the announcement of the swimming campaign sponsored by the local chapter of the American Red Cross for the youth of the community has come unprecedented response and enthusiasm from every part of the city.

Gus Koch, who was awarded the Red Cross scholarship to the National Aquatic School, has returned from Natick, Mass., as a qualified Red Cross life saving and water safety instructor and will be in direct charge of the swimming classes. Lessons will be held at Spring Lake beginning Tuesday, July 6, at 10 a. m.

Every child, from the fourth grade through high school, is invited to participate. Admissions to Spring Lake are assumed by the Red Cross and the lessons are absolutely free.

To date, 235 children in the city have signed up to take advantage of this opportunity to really enjoy America's number one sport. Parents are urged to encourage their children to invest their time and effort in learning to swim this summer during the months of July and August. The dividends are invaluable—health, relaxation and perhaps life. The important factor in learning the art of swimming is the provision of safe and sanitary swimming facilities and swimming instruction.

The local Red Cross Chapter, by means of the National Red Cross Aquatic School, provides the aquatic teacher and admission to Spring Lake. It is up to the parents to encourage the children to learn to swim. Those who did not sign up through the schools are invited to register at Spring Lake, Tuesday morning, July 6, at 10 o'clock.

The national park system of this country contains more than 21.5 million acres.

Odds Are That...

It is negotiating new wage terms with the C.I.O. steelworkers. There have been reports of industry talks this week with C.I.O. President Philip Murray in Pittsburgh.

Earlier this year steel generally adopted a policy of no wage increases and no price increases. It rejected a pay boost for steelworkers for that reason.

But the new agreement, Lewis signed with the commercial coal producers calls for a $1 daily hike in wages for coal miners, plus a doubling of the miners welfare fund royalty to 20 cents a ton.

The "captive" mine people rejected the Lewis contract because their negotiator, Harry Moses, said he could not accept the union shop clause.

Under the Taft-Hartley act a union shop requiring compulsory union membership is legal only when the workers involved have given prior consent at an N.L.R.B. election.

But Lewis is barred from obtaining such an election in the mines, even though nobody doubts he could win one, because his failure to file a non-Communist affidavit bars him from using N.L.R.B. facilities.

The rest of the coal industry gave Lewis this union shop without an N.L.R.B. election, spokesmen saying it was the only way to keep labor peace in the industry.

This Firm Believes In Year's Vacation

Chicago, July 2 (AP)—Miss Neill Mason, a stenographer for a Loop advertising firm, returned to work yesterday after a year's vacation with full pay, but she didn't put in a full day at the office.

Her employer, H. Glenn Miller, told her two hours before quitting time she could go home—"You've had a hard day after a year of taking it easy."

The middle-aged office worker said it was "nice to get back to work." But she said she is looking forward to 1954 when she will be eligible for another year's vacation with pay.

Miss Mason was the first employee of Miller's firm to receive the year's vacation he promised to each worker after six years employment. The only stipulation is "constructively," and must write a letter to the other employees each week. Miller started the substantial leave as part of good employer-employee relations.

Miss Mason spent the year traveling, visiting most of the 48 states, Mexico and sections of Canada. She described her vacation as "wonderful" and "very educational."
